One Dead 35 Injured in US 27 Wreck Milk Transport Rams Labor Semi

Wm. Leon Cotton driver of a tank transport milk truck for the Ridge Tank Line, hauling raw milk from Okalochee to Miami, is dead as a result of the ramming of his truck into the rear of a semi trailer loaded with more than 80 cane workers on its way to the field at approximately 7:45 W. on Monday morning just two miles south of South Bay.

Thirty-five of the workers were given first aid at the Belle Glade Memorial Hospital and four had been hospitalized Wednesday afternoon. A half dozen more were awaiting study of pictures to determine the seriousness of the injuries.

According to Highway Patrolman Emerson who worked the case along with Trooper Brinkley, examination showed that the tank truck had stopped before making a left-hand turn into a bridge with his turn lights operating, and had been backed on by the milk transport in the rear.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in extricating driver Cotton from the cab of his truck because of its telescoped condition and entanglement in the labor truck. The front end of the tank tractor is crumpled and distorted, evidencing considerable impact.

Ambulances were summoned and those needing attention

Phone Nos Changed To Cited Way

Southern Bell's engineers have come up with a new wrinkle — they're going to make you dial seven digits if you use their phones, and you may eventually be able to dial a friend in Tanganyika direct.

Palmetto-Port Magazine area will be reached by dial 924 and then four digits for the particular station; in the Belle Glade-Lake Harbor area 968 is the area number, with four more digits to be dialed.

The change-over will take place at midnight April 15th. The new directory will not be of any use before April 15th, but it will be necessary after that time.

Rams Squeezed By Stuart 54-52

Belle Glade's hustling Rams was another close one Friday night by getting past Stuart 54-52.

The Rams started out cold. They only managed 7 points the first quarter but held Stuart to eight. They picked up somewhat the second quarter with Kruse and the Bass boys getting four points each to outscore the Tigers 14-6 in the second period. They left at half time with a 14-6 lead.

In the third period Robert Rabara heated up for eight points to lead the Rams to a 39-28 lead over the Tigers.

The fourth quarter was a hectic one for the Rams. The Stuart 13-10. However, the ten point lead was too much and the Rams never surrendered the lead.

War helped the cause by getting five of his seven points in the last quarter.

Robert Rabara led the Rams with 14 points. He was closely followed by Johnny and Tommy Bass with 13 and 12. Ramsey and Bannister were high for the Tigers with 17 and 15. The Rams had better Stuart in their 56-52.

Auxiliary Begins Annual Hospital Membership Drive

The annual drive of the Women's Auxiliary of the Belle Glade Memorial Hospital is again underway. This is the only volunteer group that is directly connected with the hospital. It is also the only group that solicits funds for the hospital. Their primary interest is the betterment of the hospital. The members of this group give of their time and efforts in providing additional equipment and comfort for the patients.

Some of their projects has been furnishing a private room, redecorating the nurses' home, sponsoring a nurses' bowling team, doing most of the mending for the hospital. They have several members that volunteer their time as Grey Ladies; women who work faithfully with the Heart Clinic at the hospital. In the past year this group has started a Nurses' Scholarship Fund. At present they are working for the purchase of an oxygen tent. All of these things add to the betterment of the hospital and our community. This group gives unselfishly of their time, but they do need your help. They need financial aid to make these projects possible.

Those that have received letters from this group may mail their donations to Mrs. J. Allen Baker, at 25 N. W. Ave. G. On February 5th they will begin the residential campaign. Please give this association through the hospital needs your help. Any one interested in becoming a member of this worthwhile organization, contact Mrs. David Baile or come to the meeting at the hospital on February 12th at 2 p. m.

Glades Jr. College Registration Small

Governor Bryant Sees Good And Bad Housing-3 Hot Meals For $1.20

Governor Bryant's hour-and-a-half inspection of Glades farm labor housing while storing away a running report on progress of sugar production, gave him ideas of accomplishment in housing for both off-shore and domestic farm labor.

The Governor was intrigued by the reports of three warm meals per day for laborers for $1.20; he noted the many CBS buildings in the area; he noted that "education must progress in order for those who enjoy a higher standard of living to more fully appreciate and care for the better things of life."

Revering from the planned route, in an impulsive move, Governor Bryant came upon a rooming house where the night before normal socializing left its effects, and the tenants had not "touched a bit of straiten up, sweeping or bed-making."

The sight did not tickle the esthetic senses; the aroma was not enticing, nor was the disarray appealing to the gubernatorial party.

Representative Emmett Roberts and President J. Harry Vaughan of US Sugar, together

Feb. 20 Deadline For Auto Tags

There are 18 shopping days for auto tags.

The lines forming at the Tax Collector's Office are becoming longer and will be very irritating to those who wait until the last few days, for there are 4,974 more tags to be sold according to estimates.

During the first four weeks of '62 there have been 197 more tags sold than during the same period in '61. The number of tags transferred (300), and four more boats registered.

Harry Vaughan (r) gave Governor Bryant a run-down on the co-ops in the present 7-mill construction program for sugar production in the Glades. Mr. Vaughan is Chairman of the Governor's Sugar Committee.

Representative Emmett Roberts and Commissioner Brown of the Industrial Commission listen intently to the report as well as to answers by Mr. Vaughan to the inquisitive Governor.

With George Wedgworth, President of the Co-op and Florida Industrial Commissioner Worley, he paid a short visit thru the Pahokee Housing Authority's new project, the Sugar Company's Bryant quarters for domestic and off-shore workers.

When the Governor had seen some of the Belle Glade housing, he paid a short visit through Ocoela Camp and returned to the County Airport to enplane for Miami at 4:30.

BPWC Rummage Sale Set For Saturday

Belle Glade Business and Professional Women's Club will have a rummage sale Saturday, Feb. 3. All members are asked to bring rummage by the home of Mrs. Janice Croft or bring to the sale. Volunteer member workers are also needed.

The subsidence of the soil was a matter of interest to the Governor and brought questions as to the construction of the area.

In the Governor's party were: Worley Brown, Harry Van Brunt, State Employment Service Director, Ralph Moss, Farm Placement Service Director, John Evans, Public Relations Assistant to the Governor and John Broyles of the Industrial Commission.

Billy Rogers, Claude Shirley, Andrew Duda and other Glades citizens were on hand to greet the Governor when he arrived at the County Airport at 3:00.

George Wedgworth flew to Miami to bring members of the party to Belle Glade.

Mrs Laske Discusses Lions Industries For The Blind

Belle Glade Lions heard details of the work of the Lions Industries For The Blind, Inc. as a non profit organization with an average of, from 11 to 13 blind making items for sale.

A rule of the operation is that at least 75 percent of the total article must have been made by one of the workers. This prevents reselling items purchased.

More than 60 different articles are manufactured in the West Palm Shop.

Growth "Of-For-And-With" The Community

Increasing it's number of savings accounts to 4,180, it's total net savings by $1,024,377 for a total of $115.5 million, and it's total assets of 94 percent by $1,530,064 during '61. The Everglades Federal Savings and Loan Association contributed substantially to the record of all Florida Associations in providing more than 50 people or groups with a total home-purchase mortgage in Florida for '61.

It is reported that in Florida commercial banks provided 65.4 millions, insurance companies 34.5 millions, individuals 227 millions, government bond agencies 275.3 millions, while the State's Savings and Loan Associations had a lending volume of $778,666,000.

The Savings and Loan Association, specialists in financial matters, the local institution provided funds for building 67 new homes in the area and purchased 31 existing homes.

Commercial banks, clutched the remnants of donations once exercised by community bankers in the religious, social and economic affairs of it's borrowers, are conducting a vigorous campaign to stave savings and Loan Associations through Federal Reserve.

noying; 4 and one-fourth percent became monthly irritants, magnified especially at the annual meeting, 4 1/2 percent — the savings rate for the current half year offered by Everglades Federal Savings — is upstartish, incredible and downright "monkey-wrench-in-the-machinery" (it's just his majesty) of Agriculture will head the 1962 Heart-Days for Business in Belle Glade, announced Heart Soulelette, Glades Heart Fund Chairman today.

Living with your Heart

The following information has been taken from the Heart Association of Palm Beach and Martin Counties.

More can be done today than ever before to help the child with congenital heart defects, and more is being done. Many new and excellent surgical facilities are available in Florida today and, with the aid of new drugs and treatment, many patients can delay or avoid the need for surgery at all.

In general, congenital heart disease is little understood outside of the medical profession. Here are some of the basic facts about this problem:

Q. What is meant by congenital heart disease?

A. It is not really a disease, like pneumonia or rheumatic fever. It is a term applied to a number of malformations of the heart with which children are sometimes born.

Q. Are all congenital heart malformations detectable at birth?

A. While they are all present at birth, quite a number give no symptoms until early childhood. In general, they are not dangerous to life and many of them can be corrected.

Q. What causes congenital heart defects?

A. Some apparently are the result of hereditary defects; others are believed to be caused by virus diseases in early pregnancy, especially German measles. Most often medical leaders admit, we do not know the cause.

Q. Are the common contagious diseases of childhood dangerous to children with malformed hearts?

A. No. They usually survive these infections as well as other children.

Q. Are there any special precautions their parents should take?

A. The children should receive penicillin or other antibiotics before dental extraction or tonsillectomy because of the danger of infection settling in the heart.

Q. Do people with congenital heart defects have shorter lives than those with normal hearts?

A. It varies with the nature and severity of the defect. Life expectancy is generally shorter, but many with abnormal hearts live long and active lives, and new surgical techniques have improved the outlook tremendously for some types of heart defects.

Q. Are special schools best for children with cardiac malformations?

A. Since it is important for these children to keep their lives as normal as possible, most of them can be adjusted to regular classrooms.

Treatment

Q. What is the treatment for congenital heart defects?

A. Most really important results thus far have been accomplished by surgery, and many thousands have been restored to normal function.

Q. What should be done for children with defects for which operation is practical as yet?

A. This decision should be made by a physician. In general, it is not necessary to restrict them needlessly. Most will limit their own activity. Over-protection is a great mistake. They can generally be helped by graded exercises to develop muscular strength.

Q. Can girls with congenital heart defects marry and have children?

A. Thousands have. Each case is an individual matter and the doctor should be consulted on whether it is safe to have children.

Q. What is meant by "blue babies"?

A. A "blue baby" has a malformation of the heart that lets some of the blue blood, meant to go to the lungs, be pumped directly to the body. It imparts a bluish tinge to the skin and lips.

Q. Should all "blue babies" be operated on as quickly as possible?

A. No. So long as the baby is gaining weight and is bright, operation may be deferred.

Belle Glade Group Brings In The Fish

Enjoying a fishing trip Wednesday night aboard the Blue Heron out from West Palm Beach, a group of Belle Gladians including Howell and Louise Bass, Bobby and Pop Kirchner, Wayne Moss, Dr. R. V. Greco, Blondie and Willie Mann, Geneva Cross, Joe Guerry and friends, Russell Bass, Don and Iris Tanner, Jeanie and Uricka Manickie, Thurston and Bonnie Chaselman.

Everybody caught fish and had a good time on the outing. About 75 were caught including blues, kings, mackerel and various other fish.

Rules Of 1950 Still Maintained At Belle Glade Municipal Park

Many people passing thru, many people here for the winter, and civic leaders of nearby communities have asked to clarify the ideals and rules that make and keep Belle Glade Municipal Park the intimate community gathering place it is.

Credit must be given to many people — the wise City Commission generous with its support and sympathetic to the needs of youngsters for a safe place to play and something to play with, to Mrs. McDonald's stressful diligence and forthright in planning, to the children's cooperation without which it would be impossible to keep the gardens, equipment and lawns as nice as they are. Belle Glade has one of the finest playground parks in the country, one of the most used for its size, and for over three years there has been no serious accident.

It has been necessary to make and enforce a few rules from time to time. We have kept them to the minimum, and for each one there is a reason. Remember during the home of supervision we are in charge of children from three years old to teenagers. Supervision implies restraint when necessary, and we are determined to protect children even from themselves. It is our duty to both the child and his parents to send him toward his future with a sound healthy body and a spirit of cooperation and fair play.

Park play is supervised from 9:30 a. m. until 12:00 noon and from 2:00 p. m. until 5:30 p. m. Children in the park at other times should be accompanied by an adult, both for their own protection and for protection of city property.

1. All unsafe procedures of mauling and equipment will be discouraged.
2. No fighting, bad language or conscious cruelty of one child to another will be tolerated.
3. Various equipment and

Uncle Dan Says:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was making their customary observations on the human race and judging from their comments, they ain't much hope for it.

Ed Doolittle, fer instance, said he was reading in a magazine article where they is 18 million fishermen in the United States, and the next day he saw where some column writer in a newspaper claimed they was 18 million chronic liars in this country. Ed claimed the two figures come out perfect and was final proof that all fishermen is liars.

And the sad part about it, allowed Ed, was that the number of fishermen is increasing at a steady rate. Zerk Grubb said it was just plain hard to get the truth out of anybody that had ever been close to a fishing hole. He said he wouldn't be surprised if a fish didn't go home and tell a lie about the size of the hole he stole.

Bug Hookum, who looks at things a little on the dark side, was lamenting that personal liberty was disappearing in this country. He claimed if he didn't get some of these lawyers out of the legislature and the Congress, we'd soon have to permit from the Attorney General to open a bureau drawer. Most of the fellers agreed as how lawyers has managed to get so many laws on the book that there can't be such a thing as no more as a "law abiding citizen."

In the main, Mister Editor, I think Bug and the fellers is about right. I ain't as big a joy-killer as Bug but I ain't never been a feller to look up the chimney fer Santa Claus either. Back in the old days a new state or federal law was passed only after many months of thought, prayer, and deliberation. Fer instance, I can recall when I was a boy they was discussing a fence law fer cattle. One legislator got up and argued again it, and he didn't want no fence law on account of when a pore man stole a pig he didn't want to make him lift it over no fence. In them days, human weakness was took into consideration. It also proves, I reckon, that the pore man voted pritty regular in them days.

Clem Webster told the fellers he was having a heap of trouble this year separating the figures from the facts. He claimed he gits a set of figures about once a month from the Agriculture Department showing the farmer is doing fine but they don't jibe with his bank book. Clem said, in case the fellers hadn't heard it, they is a difference between figures and facts. Fer instance, he explained, when you look at a lady with a girdle on, you're looking at the girdle but without the girdle you're looking at the facts. That Clem is a card, Mister Editor.

games are available during supervision hours. We expect the borrower to use his equipment in a manner conducive to its purpose and return it in decent condition for the next user. This is only fair.

4. Throwing sand is dangerous, as the grains, sharp as glass, cause great pain and sometimes infections in the delicate eye membranes.

5. Do please be careful of broken coke bottles. There are so many little bare feet here. Return the empties to the cartons in the shelter, please. Incidentally so many bottles have been broken or lost, we are constantly posting, deposits. We would welcome any spare cocoa cola or grapefruit bottles you have around the house to make up our shortages. Should you accidentally break one do try to bring us a replacement.

6. No dogs are wanted in the park. This is a desperately hard rule to enforce and one that causes much antagonism as the children say "He followed me." STILL, IT MUST BE ENFORCED. The dogs near the sandpile have fleas to contribute to it. They carry the germs of impetigo to a perfect medium for transfer to a tot. Many children are afraid of strange dogs, and many dogs will not take the mauling a young child is liable to administer to it. Finally, dogs have various revolting habits that make them an unsanitary addition to what is after all a "Mecca" for children. Once a dog is given entry he becomes a "regular" visitor and there are so many dogs in Belle Glade! It must be stopped. Please don't make us have to send for an exterminator to pick them up and impound them.

The pre-school nursery, for children from three years old to five, is remaining until further notice. The hours are from 9:00 a. m. until 12:00 noon, however you can pick up your children earlier than 12:00 and you can bring them later than 9:00. It is a flexible program. There is no charge for this service except for the accompanying parents for a beverage and sucker given about 10:30. Thirty cents will pay for a week's "parties" as the programs run Monday through Friday inclusive.

The shelter is available for parties. Just check the date in fore hand so you can be sure it will be available for you. The fireplaces are for you, the public. Rest rooms and water are available.

Make use of your park. It is for you. Groups are welcome for picnics, tennis, shuffleboard, etc. If you desire a place to give a party, consult the Women's Club or the Girl Scout Council. Both of their buildings are available at various times for a very modest rental. Make use of the fine library on the park grounds. It is a good place to "charge out."

"Count Your Blessings"

Many folks you see daily on the streets remember the one-room schools on Ritta and Tolly Islands — the first consideration for Glades youngsters' education.

Now, the Press, radio and television is constantly reminding you that the Palm Beach Junior College offers to high school graduates classes AT NIGHT (enabling them to work, to prepare students for the last two years of college.

High School graduates in the Glades may take some courses at night here, and may also arrange to be picked up by bus and taken to West Palm Beach to the Campus of Junior College for a rounded program of study to complete the two-year college course.

Over 700 adults were in attendance during the fall semester of the twenty classes offered by PB Junior College, Vets Educational Program, Vocational Education Department and the Belle Glade Vocational Agriculture of the school system. "Boca University" is only 42 miles from Belle Glade when the road along the south side of the Hillsboro Canal is made available as a State Road.

If a community is affected in growth by its educational facilities — and it is — then we're making progress in the Glades.

Information on any of these classes may be had from Pellor Morris, our Principal, or at the Junior College in West Palm — by personal appearance, writing, or telephone.

What's more satisfying is that a great number of the instructors are local business men and individuals who daily practice the profession they're teaching.

The Lord has given us soil for agricultural not exceeded in productive characteristics anywhere. He has given us more than the Nation's average supply of fresh water.

Man has made many mistakes, but seems recently to have realized that "talking to the Lord" is most effective when a little push is given by man himself.

Yes, we've blessings — add em up!

MONEY FOR PEACE Instead Of For Fall-out Shelter

1350 Second Ave. and had a picnic around a bonfire, Oakville, Ont.
January 21, 1962

Dear Belle Glade Friends,
We think of you when we go to the grocery and find vegetables marked "Import-U.S.A." It's interesting to find U.S. oranges alongside oranges from South Africa and Mexico!

The weather has been pretty cold. For three days last week the temperature went up and down between 60 and 100. On Sunday it finally went up to 38 and that called for a celebration. We took the children out hiking in a wind-sheltered ravine, went ice-skating (and ice-falling) on a frozen stream

We are comfortably set up in a subdivision of Oakville near a new school where the girls are adjusting happily. Anita is getting a bit of French in fourth grade. People smile to hear the children's southern accent and expressions. Marian said after a couple days at school, "I like my teacher, but I can't understand her talking." Canadian speech is much faster and British accents.

The Peace Research Institute is in the midst of its drive for funds. The idea is catching fire across Canada. People are beginning to understand that there is no longer any effective protection for anyone. He said, "It is high time we turned to day's weapon of war. Since we cannot protect ourselves against war, we must find a way to eliminate it. Science must be put to work stopping the rampage of polo war as it was put to work stopping the rampage of polo.

A Toronto insurance executive with five children recently decided to give the $1000 he planned to use for a fall-out shelter to the peace cause. He said, "I came to the conclusion this would be the best protection I can give my family." He said he was spurred by the action of 28 U.S. families who have given money to the U.N. instead of building fall-out shelters.

With best wishes, Julian and Ruth Griggs and Children

Roses Are Red—So Don't Feel Blue—Plant Them

Roses are red, but you will feel blue if the neighbors plant roses before you do.

This is because roses are prestige flowers. If you excel with these thorny beauties, you can take your turn in displaying the nosegays on the church organ.

You still have ample time to get the project underway, because the rose planting season has been delayed.

Winter for the first robin of winter. This is a sure sign that planting time is here. Weather is also a factor.

The warm weather that lasted through much of December prevented roses from becoming dormant. Therefore, commercial nurserymen were unable to dig and market their planting stocks earlier.

You may purchase rose bushes in three forms. These are bare roots, in containers or burlap wrapped. The latter is called, infant style because of the triangular bush and damp bottom.

For the procrastinator, container-grown roses can be planted later, but will cost a fancy price.

Varieties to plant can be a problem. Old-fashioned favorites have been superseded by the newcomers. These include such roses as Louis Philippe, Minnie Francis, Marie Van Houtte and Safrano. Often they thrive where the modern hybrids succumb to the deep South's tropical temperatures, high humidity and diseases.

Except for the most dedicated hobbyist, the modern hybrid roses are the hardest to grow.

Site Plant roses for cut flowers in a separate cutting garden, because they're far from hand, some if pruned properly, covered most of the time with protective fungus and stripped of flower buds daily.

Select a site in a sunny location. In the event the bed is located near large plants, protect the rose bushes from marauding birds with a sheet of metal roofing buried vertically along the side of the bed.

Prepare the planting site prior to securing the rose bushes. If the soil is loose, light and sandy, remove it to a depth of 15 inches and replace with compacted cottonwood soil. For best growth, be sure the replaced material is quite acid. Many sandy soils in South Florida contain too much lime for best rose production, say University of Florida rose specialists.

Choose an overcast day for planting. First check the plant carefully and cut back the bush to four or five eyes. Trim off all broken roots.

Be sure the planting holes are large enough to accommodate the roots without crowding in the bottom of each hole drop a handful of garden fertilizer and cover lightly with top soil. Dig the roots of each plant in a bucket of water just before planting. Insert the new bush so that the root system will stand at the same level that it stood in the nursery row.

With a slow stream of water from a hose, work the soil about the roots, filling the hole to the ground level. Pack firmly and put a saucer of earth about the plant to hold water.

When the rose bushes begin to leaf out, keep an eye out for diseases such as black spot, brown canker, and powdery mildew. Insect pests that may harm the bushes will include aphids, thrips, pumpkin bugs,

Stop Communist Use Of Mail Cong. Paul Rogers Asks Congress

Congressman Paul Rogers has called on the House of Representatives to use the postal rate increase bill now pending, as the means to cut off the use of the mails by the communists in their propaganda efforts in this country.

In his remarks to the House, Congressman Rogers stated: "Mr. Speaker, there is great concern on the part of the people of Florida and the Nation about the flow of subversive Communist propaganda into the United States. This violation of material enters this country and is delivered to the doorsteps of thousands of unsuspecting citizens. Latest figures show 76 million pounds of such printed material was sent in the United States during fiscal year 1961."

Bids are being opened Feb. 27 on a $15 million navigation lock and canal spillway structure on the Kissimmee River located some eight miles west of the town of Okeechobee. Designed as a flood control measure, it is planned, under later contracts to dredge the Kissimmee River to a depth of about 30 feet. When completed, the Kissimmee River floodway will virtually eliminate flood damage over a 758-square-mile area.

Lions Club To Sponsor Singing Sweethearts Of U Of F

Under the baton of Dr. Delbert Sherrett, their director, who formed the group in 1948, they have made 7 tours outside the continental United States, appearing in theatres, on military bases, at large hotels and concert halls, and as guest performers for colleges, high schools, and universities abroad. Recent performances include TV appearances in Panama, Puerto Rico, and radio and TV concerts in Florida and environs. They are in constant demand for conventions, large banquets, and workshops on and off campus.

The self-assessment feature of our tax system is based on the good faith of the American people and their continued willingness of reporting income and deductions accurately. "We are keenly aware," Director Tomlinson has said, "that in turn this good faith is largely dependent upon the public's general confidence that the tax laws are operated fairly and impartially and that each and everyone is paying his proper share of taxes. It is our aim to see that this public confidence is warranted and increased. To do this we are going to devote our efforts to improving tax administration by—better service to the taxpayer; a reasonable, although vigorous, enforcement of the tax laws; and—curbing abuses in the reporting of income and the claiming of deductions."

In giving better service to taxpayers IRS is stepping up its public information program. "I believe of particular interest to many readers of this paper," Mr. Tomlinson said, "will be the series of question and answer articles that Commissioner Caplin has had prepared from discussions he has had on the farmer and taxes. Readers with income will find these articles helpful to them in answering questions that they may have on the preparation of their tax returns."

Before we start on specific questions, do you have any general advice regarding taxes you might give farmers?

I would first like to express my appreciation for an opportunity to answer questions of interest to farmers. Farmers from the largest business group filing Federal income tax returns; they file nearly one-third of the total business returns filed. We at Internal Revenue Service are vitally interested in seeing that the returns are as nearly correct as possible when we receive them.

No businessman, whether he be engaged in farming or any other type of business, can file a correct return unless adequate records of business income and expenses are maintained throughout the tax year. I strongly urge each of you not only to maintain adequate records but as good records as possible. I am sure you will find that such action will not only benefit your government but you, as business people as well.

What would a farmer secure help in devising a system for maintaining his records?

There are many sources of information for this. We publish a booklet, the Farmer's Tax Guide, which gives a brief illustration of a form the records might take. I understand that many farmers have completed this booklet and are using it to record the various transactions when they occur, and also that some banks in agricultural areas have record books of this type. The local Department of Agriculture offices will supply account books, and are an excellent source of information. Of course, our local Internal Revenue offices will be more than happy to answer any questions along this line.

Do you feel a farmer needs any special skills to maintain good records?

I certainly do not. Good records can be very simple and informal and require little time to maintain. However, though, that the secret of keeping accurate records is to record the various transactions when they occur, and not to depend on memory at a later date.

What records does the Internal Revenue Service require farmers to maintain?

Our only requirements as to accounting records of farmers are that the records maintained be sufficient to enable the farmer to accurately prepare his tax return and for the Internal Revenue Service to determine the correctness of the return filed.

What type of record books should be used?

There are no requirements whatsoever as to what type of record books should be used or in what manner or form the records should be maintained. The records need only meet the requirements I stated in reply to the previous question. However they should be systematic and show all the receipts and expenditures for the year. They should also show the cost of so-called permanent assets and additions or improvements to permanent assets. These are assets and improvements having a useful life extending substantially beyond the taxable year in which purchased. This is necessary because the cost of these assets may not be deducted in the year they are purchased, but a substantial portion of their cost may be deducted as depreciation over the period of their usefulness in the farm business.

Any other advice on records?

Be sure to keep all documents which can be used as evidence of a transaction such as cancelled checks, sales slips, invoices, and receipts. On an audit of a return, those items would be needed. Before we leave the subject of records, I would again like to point out that it is certainly to the farmer's or any other businessman's advantage to keep as good and complete records as possible. Good records not only enable the preparation of an accurate tax return, but are an invaluable business asset. They are useful in credit applications, for measuring the efficiency of the farming operation, and for innumerable other business purposes.
